With a genuine desire for healing, reconciliation, and understanding, we offer this Land Acknowledgment to respectfully recognize the land we occupy, Indigenous Peoples, and the relations between them. The Acknowledgment recognizes lasting progress begins and continues with growing understanding of harms and works to challenge the legacies of Colonialism in order to move in the true spirit of community. To implement the Land Acknowledgment is to respect those whose relationship to the land precedes ours and to collectively engage in fundamental measures that advance justice for our Indigenous people of the region - past, present, and future.

We are gathered on many lands that are still represented by many Tribes whose relationship with these lands continues to this day. Specifically, Oregon State University in Corvallis, OR is located within the traditional homelands of the Mary's River or Ampinefu Band of Kalapuya. Following the Willamette Valley Treaty of 1855, Kalapuya people were forcibly removed to reservations in Western Oregon. Today, living descendants of these people are a part of the Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde Community of Oregon and the Confederated Tribes of the Siletz Indians.

We offer gratitude for the land itself, for those who have stewarded it for generations, and for the opportunity to study, learn, work and be in community on this land. We acknowledge that our Union's history, like many others, is fundamentally tied to colonial practices. Finally, we respectfully acknowledge and honor past, present, and future Indigenous workers of Oregon State University and all of its extensions.

Section 7. Women of Color Caucus. The Women of Color Caucus (WoCC) aims to celebrate, empower, and advocate for women of color at Oregon State University (OSU) by focusing on the professional development of women of color in all disciplines to enable them to become successful contributors to their field. This mission will be accomplished by providing support, community, and resources for women of color at OSU, while enriching OSU with the contributions of often silenced people. WoCC seeks to center issues, knowledge, and experiences of women of color, and provide a safe space to build meaningful connections, and support the advancement of women of color. WoCC will seek to pursue changes in institutional policy that will safeguard the rights and affirm the identities of women of color at Oregon State University, regardless of whether they are graduate students, employees, or union members. WoCC has an open membership policy and invites people of all backgrounds who encourage and support the advancement of women of color in higher education, to become members and to help in our work towards an inclusive community. In addition to general members, the WoCC will consist of at least one officer from the Executive Council to serve as a general note-taker and point-person for budgetary considerations.

Section 8. Pride Caucus. The Pride caucus is open to all union members who identify as LGBTQIA+. This includes, but is not limited to, people who identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual, pansexual, transgender, queer, genderqueer, gender nonconforming, agender, genderfluid, intersex, Two Spirit, asexual, aromantic, and demiromantic. We seek to pursue changes in institutional policy that will safeguard the rights and affirm the identities of people who identify as part of the LGBTQIA+ community at Oregon State University, regardless of whether they are graduate students, employees, or union members. In addition to general members, the Pride Caucus will consist of at least one officer from the Executive Council to serve as a general note-taker and point-person for budgetary considerations. All union members are encouraged to attend and observe meetings; however, we aim to amplify the voices of those with lived experiences pertaining to our policy goals.

Section 9. Working Parents Caucus. The Working Parents Caucus advocates for the needs of student and grad employee parents as an important part of the union's efforts, bringing family issues into bargaining, organizing, and advocacy campaigns. Bargaining for specific contract language regarding access to child care shall be the issue of focus, as well as other issues of particular interest to working parents, including but not limited to maternity/paternity leave, and Breastfeeding/Lactation Rooms. The Working Parents Caucus shall also advocate for issues facing, but not necessarily unique to, working parents such as affordable health insurance, and family medical leave, as necessary. The CGE Housing Caucus will dedicate its activities to secure affordable and quality housing for all graduate student workers at OSU. Among its objectives, the caucus will strive toward securing a housing trust for costs related to housing, advocating for stronger rights for tenants in the local area, and stimulating the development of housing cooperatives in the local area. The CGE Housing Caucus will also work to make strategic partnerships with other housing advocacy groups including, but not limited to, the North American Students of Cooperation (NASCO) and Tenants United.

Section 11. Anti-Harassment Caucus. The CGE Anti-Harassment Caucus is open to all graduate students, regardless of current CGE membership status. In addition to general members, the Anti-Harassment Caucus will consist of at least one officer from the Executive Council to serve as a general note-taker and point-person for budgetary considerations. The Anti-Harassment Caucus dedicates itself to listening to and supporting graduate students who have been bullied by their advisors, OSU administrators, peers, or other party. Secondly, this caucus works to stop bullying at OSU. Changing the culture of bullying at OSU will be accomplished by both top-down (ex. working with OSU to establish consequences for bullying) and bottom-up (ex. marching to demand that the culture change) actions. Additionally, the caucus will work to develop and provide resources to graduate students to stop bullying as they experience or witness it.

Section 12. Caucus on Graduate Employee Safety (CGES): CGES will dedicate its activities to inform graduate workers of their rights and what to expect if they are injured while completing tasks that fulfill responsibilities as a student or under an assistantship. Additionally, CGES will organize information about workers' compensation claims, different types of injuries, and what recourse is available for injuries incurred under different capacities of work. Creating strategic partnerships with OSU representatives that can provide guidance on ergonomic safety/welfare, SAIF, and PacificSource is essential for the success of this caucus.

Section 13. Disability Justice Caucus. The CGE Disability Justice Caucus is open to all graduate students, regardless of current CGE membership status. In addition to general members, the Disability Justice Caucus will consist of at least one officer from the Executive Council to serve as a general note-taker and point-person for budgetary considerations.

The DJ Caucus is guided by the 10 Principles of Disability Justice authored by the Sins Invalid Family (Skin, Tooth, and Bone: The Basis of Movement is Our People; A Disability Justice Primer 2016), which are as follows:

1. Intersectionality. We know that each person has multiple identities, and that each identity can be a site of privilege or oppression. The mechanical workings of oppression and how it outputs shift depending upon the characteristics of any given institutional or interpersonal interaction; the very understanding of disability experience itself is being shaped by race, gender, class, gender expression, historical moment, relationship to colonization and more.
2. Leadership Of Those Most Impacted. We know ableism exists in the context of other historical systemic oppressions. We know to truly have liberation we must be led by those who know the most about these systems and how they work.
3. Anti-Capitalist Politic. We are anti-capitalist as the very nature of our mind/bodies often resist conforming to a capitalist "normative" level of production. We don't believe human worth is dependent on what and how much a person can produce. We critique a concept of "labor" as defined by able-bodied supremacy, white supremacy and gender normativity. We understand capitalism to be a system that promotes private wealth accumulation for some at the expense of others.
4. Cross-Movement Solidarity. Necessarily cross movement, Disability Justice shifts how social justice movements understand disability and contextualize ableism, lending itself toward a united front politic.
5. Recognizing Wholeness. We value our people as they are, for who they are, and understand that people have inherent worth outside of capitalist notions of productivity. Each person is full of history and life experience. Each person has an internal experience composed of their own thoughts, sensations, emotions, sexual fantasies, perceptions, and idiosyncracies. Disabled people are whole people.

6. Sustainability. We pace ourselves, individually and collectively, to be sustained long-term. We value the teachings of our lives and bodies. We understand that our embodied experience is a critical guide and reference pointing us toward justice and liberation.
7. Commitment To Cross-Disability Solidarity. We value and honor the insights and participation of all of our community members. We are committed to breaking down ableist / patriarchal / racist / classed isolation between people with physical impairments, people who identify as “sick” or are chronically ill, “psych” survivors and those who identify as “crazy”, neurodiverse people, people with cognitive impairments, and people who are of a sensory minority, as we understand that isolation ultimately undermines collective liberation.
8. Interdependence. Before the massive colonial project of Western European expansion, we understood the nature of interdependence within our communities. We see the liberation of all living systems and the land as integral to the liberation of our own communities, as we all share one planet. We attempt to meet each other’s needs as we build toward liberation, without always reaching for state solutions which inevitably then extend its control further over our lives.
9. Collective Access. As brown/black and queer crips, we bring flexibility and creative nuance to engage with each other. We create and explore new ways of doing things that go beyond able-bodied/minded normativity. Access needs aren’t shameful — we all have various capacities which function differently in various environments. Access needs can be articulated within a community and met privately or through a collective, depending upon an individual’s needs, desires, and the capacity of the group. We can share responsibility for our access needs, we can ask that our needs be met without compromising our integrity, we can balance autonomy while being in community, we can be unafraid of our vulnerabilities knowing our strengths are respected.
10. Collective Liberation. How do we move together as people with mixed abilities, multiracial, multi-gendered, mixed class, across the orientation spectrum – where no body/mind is left behind?”

The DJ Caucus is committed to providing space for disabled, Mad, crip, mentally ill, neuroqueer, neurodivergent, crazy, blind, deaf, and hard-of-hearing graduate students to be in community with each other, as well as to center their needs, interests, and concerns. Moreover, the DJ Caucus works to end ableist/sanist structures and dynamics within CGE and Oregon State University.

Section 14. Environmental Justice Caucus. The CGE Environmental Justice Caucus works with the university and Corvallis communities to address the causes and consequences of the climate crisis and environmental destruction through equitable and just solutions. In all its work and actions, the caucus will center frontline communities and voices.

Section 15. International Caucus. The CGE International Caucus is open to all graduate students regardless of CGE membership status and serves to represent the concerns of all international students at Oregon State University. The International Graduate Caucus recognises that international graduate students attending OSU have unique needs and difficulties in comparison to US students. It seeks to discover these issues through canvassing the international graduate student body and seeks solutions to them through cooperative action. Issues affecting international graduate students intersect with other Caucuses' concerns (e.g. Women of Colour, Housing, Anti-Harassment), hence members will be active in voicing the specific issues affecting international graduate students within these groups. Additionally, the Caucus seeks to work with OSU administration to improve the environment for international graduate students from the university side, whilst creating visible resources to aid international graduate students throughout all phases of their time at OSU. These might be cultural fluency materials, such as a glossary of oft-encountered academic terms in the US (e.g. GTA, Associate Dean for Academic Programs), events, or online platforms where students can find others of the same nationality easily.

Section 16. Mental Health Caucus. The CGE Mental Health Caucus directs our efforts to address the impacts of mental health on graduate student workers in three ways: resource dissemination, active advocacy, and community support. We work to communicate with graduate student workers about available resources for addressing increasingly prevalent mental health-related hardships while promoting mental wellness for all. We advocate for increased support from Oregon State University, striving to alleviate unnecessary stress and mitigate mental health crises for graduate student workers. In doing so, we aim to raise awareness and fight stigma across campus. We develop and foster community support networks for graduate student workers struggling with mental health-related hardships, either personally or through family and friends.

Section 17. Hardship Fund Committee. The committee shall have at least three members in good standing who will constitute the voting body. The Hardship Fund Committee shall meet at least once an academic term. Duties of the committee shall include administering the hardship fund each term and organizing to finance the Hardship Fund.

ARTICLE VI - COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

Section 1. Prior to both full contract and reopener negotiations, the Bargaining Committee will develop a bargaining platform of issues to be advanced in bargaining. This platform will be discussed at a general membership meeting. Bargaining may not proceed until the bargaining platform is ratified by the membership covered by the agreement. Ratification may occur in any manner specified by the Executive Council and may include consensus or a successful motion to ratify at a general membership meeting.

Section 2. Tentative agreements reached between the union and the employer shall be subject to vote for ratification by the membership covered by that agreement. Ratification shall be by secret ballot majority vote of those voting at a special membership meeting called for consideration of the tentative agreement. Alternatively, the ratification vote may be conducted electronically using a secure, confidential, and verifiable system that is accessible by all union members, provided that a special membership meeting is still called for consideration of the tentative agreement. Consideration and/or vote may be taken at a regular membership meeting whenever a tentative agreement is reached not more than five days before a scheduled, regular meeting.

ARTICLE VII - STRIKES

The membership, on the request and recommendation of the Bargaining Committee or the Executive Council, may authorize the union to call a strike. The recommendation to strike shall be presented to the membership at a general membership meeting. A strike authorization vote shall be conducted over at least ten (10) days to provide maximum opportunity for participation. Details of the voting procedure shall be established by the Executive Council. The vote of each member voting will be recorded. Strike authorization shall require that at least 30% of the regular membership cast a vote with at least three fourths (3/4) of the votes cast in support of a strike.

ARTICLE VIII – AMENDMENT

Section 1. These Bylaws may be amended by a majority vote of those voting at a regular membership meeting, except where the amendment relates to a bylaw which itself requires more than a majority vote, in which case the same vote will be required for adoption.

Section 2. The proposed amendment shall be submitted to the members by the same procedure as in Article XVI, Section 2 of the Constitution.

Section 3. The same amendment may not be introduced more than once in a three-month period.
